The problem statement is of regression because the output is a number or integer. Whenever output is a number mostly it is the regression. Regression comes under supervised learning because we deal with labelled data. Here we are already provided with input and output pairs that means with input we also have output. So this is a multiple regression problem since there are many independent variable and only one dependent variable.